NOTE: This is a first attempt at compiling a list of plays and films about astronomers. No claim is made for completeness and additional suggestions are most welcome. (A list of operas and other music about astronomers is included in my topical listing of astronomy-inspired music: <http://bit.ly/astronomymusic>)

PLAYS ABOUT (OR FEATURING) ASTRONOMERS:

✧ Chemers, Krumholz, and Bierman: Birth of Stars. This experimental play, one of whose authors (Mark Krumholz) is an astronomer, performed at the U. of California, Santa Cruz, has a teenage astronomy prodigy as its protagonist, and deals with her life and her obsession with the lives of stars:

(See a review at: <https://www.nytimes.com/2015/01/14/theater/constellations-with-jake-gyllenhaal-and-ruth-wilson-opens-on-broadway.html>)

✪ Sobel, Dava (author of Longitude and Galileo's Daughter) has written a play about Copernicus called "And the Sun Stood Still", which she discusses and includes in her book, A More Perfect Heaven (2011, Walker Books.) For her discussion of how she came to write the play, see: <http://astrosociety.org/wp-content/uploads/2013/02/ab2011-83.pdf>

✪ Sparks, John & Alben, Russ The Smartest Man in the World (a musical about Albert Einstein, performed briefly in Los Angeles). See: <http://www.curtainup.com/smartestmanla.html>

✪ Stoppard, Tom Galileo. 2003, Arete. (This is the full text of a previously unpublished and unperformed play written in 1970 by an internationally renowned playwright who often incorporates scientific ideas in his plays.)

✪ Rappaport, M. & Corbally, C. Space Science and Astronomy Theater. 2017, Archway. This unusual book features a collection of drama scenes about astronomical history, issues, and ideas that students can perform as part of a class. Corbally is an astronomer. See:
<https://www.archwaypublishing.com/Bookstore/BookDetail.aspx?BookId=SKU-001134041>

✪ Operas about astronomers include: Einstein on the Beach, Galileo Galilei, and Kepler by Philip Glass and The Harmony of the World by Paul Hindemith (about Kepler.)

A FEW OLDER PLAYS:

☼ Bertold Brecht's Life of Galileo (1994, Grove Press reprint English edition), a 1938 play about Galileo's discoveries and how they upended the establishment views of nature and our place in it. See also the 1974 DVD of the filmed version directed by Joseph Losey, and starring Topol as Galileo, available on King Video (<http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0073029/>)

For more about the play, see: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Life_of_Galileo

☼ Barrie Stavis's The Lamp at Midnight (1947 play about Galileo and his conflict with the Church): https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Lamp_At_Midnight

For a video of the revival, see : <http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0197613/>

☼ Good News -- a 1927 musical, book: Laurence Schwab and B.G. DeSylva, lyrics: DeSylva and Lew Brown, and music by Ray Henderson. In the 1920s at Tait College, football player Tom Marlowe falls in love with Connie Lane, who is tutoring him so he can pass astronomy and be eligible to play in the big game. The astronomy professor has a role in the madcap plot as well.

SOME MOVIES ABOUT (OR FEATURING) ASTRONOMERS (a very incomplete list):

Addicted to Love. (Matthew Broderick plays an astronomer in this 1997 romantic comedy from the U.S., but the astronomy is completely incidental): <http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0118556/plotsummary>

Contact (Jodi Foster plays Ellie Arroway, a radio astronomer based on Jill Tarter, in this 1997 film adaptation of Carl Sagan's novel): https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Contact_\(1997_US_film\))

Corpos Celestes (The Sky We Were Born Under) (A Brazilian film about an unhappy astronomer with a complex past): <https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0814062/>

Deep Impact (a 1998 disaster movie about a comet on collision course with Earth, with Elijah Wood playing a teenage amateur astronomer, and Charles Martin Smith playing a professional astronomer.)

See: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Deep_Impact_\(film\)) and <https://io9.gizmodo.com/a-scientist-responds-to-deep-impact-1709206458>

Einstein and Eddington (2008, BBC Film) Biographical dramatization of the intersection of their two lives and the 1919 proof of the General Theory of Relativity. Can currently be streamed on HBO Max. A brief review is at: <https://physicsworld.com/a/einstein-and-eddington-film/>

The Heavenly Body (a 1944 comedy, where William Powell plays an astronomer whose neglected wife, Hedy Lamarr, turns to an astrologer for advice about her romantic life):

<http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0035980/>

Interstellar (2014 science fiction film from an idea by, and in consultation with, Nobel Laureate Kip Thorne; features black holes, worm holes, and several characters as physicists working in this area.) See, for example: <https://www.wired.com/2014/10/astrophysics-interstellar-black-hole/all/1/> or <https://www.space.com/27692-science-of-interstellar-infographic.html> or <https://blogs.scientificamerican.com/observations/parsing-the-science-of-interstellar-with-physicist-kip-thorne/>

Kip Thorne has written a book called The Science of Interstellar. 2014, Norton.

Roxanne (a 1987 US film that modernizes Cyrano de Bergerac, has Daryl Hannah as an astronomer who comes to a small town to look at a comet: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Roxanne_\(film\)))

The Theory of Everything (2014 film in which Eddie Redmayne won an Oscar for playing Stephen Hawking; is about Hawking's graduate school career, discovery of his illness, marriage, etc. See: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Theory_of_Everything_\(2014_film\)))

Thor (2011 film from the Marvel comic book series, in which Natalie Portman plays an astrophysicist who is Thor's love interest. The film mixes Nordic mythology with science (including wormholes).

Top Gun (1986 film in which Kelly McGillis plays an astrophysicist who is also an Air Force pilot trainer)
